NOw Sixtene Hundred Sixtie Six is come:
When (as ſome ſay) ſhall be the Day of Doom:
Or elſe the Pope and Hierarchy deſtroy'd,
Presbytery Advanc'd and Over-joy'd:

Here's Seven years Purchaſe offer'd for their Land
Who thinke that Dreadfull Day, ſo nigh at hand:
And (if His Holyneſs ſuſpect His Chaire)
I'le take't my ſelfe, though but for this One yeare.

Of the Eclipſes this preſent Year 1666.

TWice (this preſent Year) ſhall the Glorious Sun, or rather (for ſo indeed it is) the Earth, be Eclipſed by the Moon her Interpoſition betwixt us and the Solar Body; and as often the Moon, by the Interpoſition of the Earth, betwixt her and us. But the former of the Sun, onely, is that which will be viſible in our Horizon.

The firſt (in order) ſhall be of the Moon, on Wedneſday the 6 of June, at 7 h. 25 min. afternoon. Which (notwithſtanding ſhe will be up at London before her light be fully recovered,) ſhall there very hardly be obſerved, becauſe of the Groſs Vapours then ſurrounding her. So that this will be very Conſpicuous to the more Eaſtern People of Muſcovia, Tartaria, China, &c. and ſome part thereof in Italy and Germany.

The ſecond is the Eclipſe of the Sun (or Earth, chuſe ye whether) before ſaid to be onely viſible, on Friday the 22 of June 35 m. paſt 7. in the morning, that being the apparent time of the true Conjunction, in the 10 deg. 25 min. of Cancer. But the viſible Conjunction, will be at 23 min. after 6 in the morning: the Interval of the true and viſible Conjunction (Subſ.) being 1 h. 12 m.

The { Begining at - - - - 5 h. 28 m. / Middle at - - - - 6 h. 25 m. / End at - - - - - - 7 h. 26 m. } in the morning

The { Continuance - - - - - 1. 58 / Digits darkened - - - - - 7. 25 }

The third Eclipſe will be of the Moon, on the firſt of December, being Saturday, viſible in both the Java's, Bengala, Tartaria Magna, Cambula, the Philippina, and Moluccæ Iſlands, &c.

The laſt of the Sun, on Saturday December 15. to be ſeen onely in the Southern Parts, in Magellanica, &c.

Now as touching the Effects of this and other Eclipſes; it hath been an Anciently received Opinion: That whatſoever the Sun and Moon, and reſt of the Planets and Stars, bring to paſs upon theſe Inferiour Bodys, is done by vertue of their Light. Which if granted, it muſt neceſſarily follow, that the Action of the Luminaria deficient, being diminiſhed in Partil, or wholy intermitted, in Torall Eclipſes, theſe Sublunaries ſhould meet with and ſuffer great Alterations: becauſe the Sun and Moon are the primary Coeleſtiall Cauſes of all Sublunary Effects.

But Johannes Baptiſta Morinus, Aſtrolog. Gallic. Lib 11. tells us, That Light doth onely Illuminate, and nothing elſe. And (lib. 12.) That beſides Light, there is an Actual Heat in the Sun, and in all the Stars proper and peculiar Influences, which penetrate the body of the Earth, and do not leſſe affect and diſpoſe it from the places beneath then ſuch as are above it. And therefore Eclipſes of the Luminaries are not to be conſidered, only, as to a Privation of their Light, in theſe Sublunaries, but as thoſe Eclipſes are never but either in their Conjunctions or Oppoſitions, whereby they emit their Influences more powerfully, than in any other Aſpect whatſoever.

Wherefore both Aſtronomers and Aſtrologers obſerve the ſame moment of time, in which the middle of an Eclipſe happens, the firſt whereby to Rectifie their Tables of the Motions: the later to the end that by a Cœleſtial Figure (erected to that moment of time) they may ſee what Effects an Eclipſe may produce in theſe inferiours, not in reſpect of the Light Deficient, which (ſaith he) the Learned Aſtrologers regard not, but of their Influence. Which being permitted, he further ſaith,

That in Superterranean Eclipſes of the Sun, we are deprived of his Light and Heat, totally, if the Eclipſe be Total, and in part, if but Partil; and that ſo long as the Eclipſe laſts. But we are not deprived of the Suns Influence: or at leaſt no longer than whileſt the Sun is under the Earth, which every night cauſeth a Total Solar Eclipſe, for many houres together. For, as the Influence of the Sun (whilſt under the Earth) penetrates the ſame (as is evident from the Figures of thoſe are borne by night) ſo the Influence of the Sun above the Earth, penetrates the denſe and opacous body of the Moon Eclipſing him: which neither the Sun's Light, nor Heat, could penetrate, ſhe being as black as Inke it ſelf, whileſt under the Suns Diſcus, as (by an Optique Tube) may eaſily be obſerved.

But Subterranean Solar Eclipſes (at leaſt wiſe ſuch as be Total) do more affect the upper Hemiſphere of the Earth, than the Superterranean; and the Reaſon is, becauſe the Influence of the Sun is not of infinite vertue: and therefore if it ſhould penetrate the Earths Globe, it could be but faintly, thorough both the Globes of the Earth, and Moon.

In thoſe Eclipſes therefore (at leaſt ſuch as be Total) we ſuffer by reaſon of the Immanute Influence of the Sun toward us: which (he thought) might be the cauſe, why for 30. years together, ſo much War, and all manner of miſchiefs raged in this Hemiſphere of the Earth, which Europe divideth. For as much as all that while, very many Total and nigh Total Eclipſes of the Sun, happened in the Lower Hemiſphere, as may be ſeen in Origanus, who very carefully hath noted and ſupputated both Superterranean, and Subterranean, whileſt ſcarce two notable ones fell out in our Hemiſphere.

Moreover he ſaith, that in Lunar Eclipſes, we are deprived of the Light and Heat of the Sun, which at other times is reflected by the Moon: wholly, if the Eclipſe be Total; but in part, if Partil; and only ſo long as the Eclipſe laſteth.

But

But we are not more deprived of the Influence and Elemental Efficacies of the Moon, than if there had been no Eclipſe at all: becauſe that between Her and Us, there is nothing interpos'd, which might dull or diminiſh her Elemental or Influential vertues. And this is true (at leaſt in reſpect of Influence) as well of Subterranean as Superterranean Lunar Eclipſes. Whence it is, that the Sublunarie nature is more affected by Solar Eclipſes than Lunar, by reaſon of the thereon immitute Influence of the Sun toward us: and in all Eclipſes the Influx of the Moon, exceeds the Influx of the Sun, but moſt in Lunar Eclipſes.

He condemnes the Ancients, who thought, that in Eclipſes the Action of the deficient Luminarie ceaſed upon theſe Inferiours: becauſe they ſuppoſed the Luminaries to Act by Light only; and were therefore unhappily opinionated that ſome one of the Leſſer Planets might execute the office of the Deficient Luminary.

Again he ſaith, That the Earth and its Inhabitants are more ſtrongly diſpoſed by the Eclipſes of the Luminaries, than by the other Conjunctions or Oppoſitions of the Sun and Moon: becauſe Virtus unita fortior eſt. But in Eclipſes the Raies of the Sun and Moon are united upon the ſame line (or very near it) which is drawn from them to the Earth. And the Earth is found (in a Solar Eclipſe) within a Cone which drawn from both the Luminaries as from its Baſe, binds the Earth by its ambite. But in a Lunar Eclipſe tis found within a Columne, the Extreames whereof are the Diſci of the Sun and Moon. Beſides, in every Eclipſe both the Luminaries are under the Ecliptick, where the Zodiacal vertue moſt flouriſheth. Whence it followeth, That an Eclipſe, by how much greater and of longer continuance it is, by ſo much greater are the Effects it produceth. Becauſe that in great Eclipſes the Central Rayes of the Sun and Moon are more united in the ſame Line which paſſeth over the Earth, and remaine longer united.

Then he condemns Ptolomy and all other Aſtrologers, even till theſe preſent dayes, as much miſtaken about Eclipſes, in theſe Two following things.

Firſt, in limiting the places of the Earth to which the Effects of every Eclipſe belong. For that they would have them appropriated to thoſe Regions and Provinces which are under the Signe wherein the Eclipſe falls, or others of the ſame Trigon, according to that diſtribution of the Earth; which Ptolomy hath allotted to the 12 Signes of the Zodiack. But for as much as that Diſtribution, is but a meer Fiction, (as he hath endeavoured to prove. Lib. 20. ſect. 1. cap. 2.) it is evident they have Erred in limiting certaine places of the Earth, wherein the Effects of an Eclipſe ſhall happen: and the rather, for that an Eclipſe (as every other Lunation) is an univerſal Cauſe, univerſally Active, throughout the whole Circuit of the Earth: but in every place thereof, particularly larly Active, according to the particular posture of the Eclipse, and of the whole Heavens in respect of that place of the Earth, wherein yet an Eclipse is frequently not allowed to have any Effect, according to the Ancients: because the place is not under the Signe wherein the Defect happens, or any of that Trigon, which (saith he) is Hallucinatio intollerabilis, & ab Astrologicis principiis alieniſſima.

And to such as (by way of Objection) do offer Ptolomie's Doctrine viz, Pro locis particularibus & urbibus advertere ad loca Luminarium, & Cardines figura Cœleſtis, ſub qua urbes ipſa condita ſunt, aut ad Medium Cœli in Genituris Principum, qui ipſis urbibus dominantur. As ſi hac familiaritatem, ſeu convenientiam habeant cum locis Luminarium & Cardinum in figura Deliquii, effectus ad ipſas urbes pertinere: He thus Answers;

That the Cœleſtial Bodies have no Influence on things made by Art, at least per ſe, as he seems to have proved Lib. 20. ſect. 4 cap. 3. and therefore overthrows the foundation of that Doctrine of Cities, although it should be deduced from their Radical Figures, whereof notwithstanding scarce any one remaineth. Now as to what belongs to the Medium Cœli of Princes, admitting the Familiarity aforesaid, viz. That an Eclipse happens in the M. C. of the Radical Figure of a Prince: or that in both Figures, to wit, that of the Geniture, and the Eclipse, the M. C. should be one and the same: that Eclipse indeed shall have signification upon the Actions and particular Fate of the Prince: But as for what concerns the Citizens, Earth, Water, and Aire, as Plagues, Barrenneſs &c. they shall not be thence foreseen, unless peradventure by Accident, so far forth as the Prince (being Actively or Passively disposed to War) by the similitude of the Figures, Plagues and Barrenneſs &c. may thence ensue. But these things contribute nothing to the constitution of the Air, at least of Heat, Cold Moiſture and Drought.

2 The second thing wherein he charges the Ancients to have erred, is, in determining and limiting the Subject upon which an Eclipse shall especially operate, by the Form and Nature of the Constellations wherein the Eclipse falls: saying, that if the Constellation be Humane (as Gemini Virgo Aquarius) Men shall be Affected: and if Bestial (as Aries Taurus Cancer Leo &c.) Beasts so and so called. For that these names do not truly agree to the 12. Signes of the Zodiack, which ought properly to be called by the names of the Planets there predominateing, whose Natures they resemble.

Thus much Morinus; whose new and uncouth Doctrine, till either it be Refelled, or Received by the Learned, suspends my Judgments Astrological upon the visible Eclipse of the Sun before described.
